Q: How do I force bulbs to give at Christmas time?

A: The growth can be adjusted by controlling the temperature of the room they are grown in. Allow at least 6 weeks for a flower. Make sure the bulbs you are selecting do not need pre-chilling. Paperwhites or amaryllis are good choices that are ready to go. You can pot them up in a soil mix or set them in a rocked tray with water. There is a trick to keeping your paperwhites shorter for a more compact stem that will last longer. Be sure to stop in and pick up our grower's sheet for more information.
